GALLANT CONDUCT OF CHATTANOOGA BOY

BOB FRIERSON IN FIGHT ON HINDENBURG LINE.

Lieutenant Tells of Heroism of Comrades in St. Quentin Sector.

London, Oct. 28.—At the head of his company, Lieut. Bob Frierson, son of W. L. Frierson, former mayor of Chattanooga, helped break the Hindenburg line in its toughest place, near the St. Quentin canal. He is in hospital in London recovering from a machine gun bullet wound through the leg. He is in excellent shape and goes all about London on his lame leg, and it will be only a few days until he returns to duty. Young Frierson is not the only Chattanoogan who has fought bravely. He is not the only one who has heard the machine gun bullets rain a veritable death about him, but he is one at least whose experience may be told, because the British official communique of Oct. 19 publicly praised the work of the Twenty-seventh (New York) division and the Thirtieth (Tennessee and the Carolinas) division for their splendid work in conjunction with the British in breaking the Hindenburg line. These two divisions were the only two on the whole line that were brigaded with the British. British Praises Yankess.

And while the British praised the Yankees in the official communication, the Yanks who participated in that fighting have unlimited praise for the British. Soldiers from the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth divisions, many of whom are in hospital in London, say the organisation and fighting ability of the Eritish are marvelous.

sions, many of whom are in hospital in London, say the organization and fighting ability of the British are marvelous.

Lieut, Frierson was quite a kid when he left home. Now he's quite a man. That's a way war has of putting responsibility on young shoulders. All the other officers had been assigned, transferred or wounded when, on the morning of the 29th of September, it was time for the funior officer of his command, Lieut, Frierson also found himself the senior officer as well, and went over at the head of his men.

"I had always had a pretty good imagination," said this 23-year-old boy, "I always had some idea that it was pretty lively out there, but it was a whole lot livelier than I ever thought it could be. The Germans fought almost entirely with machine guns, and it sure seemed as if the air was full of bullets."

Frierson had a hard time keeping in touch with his comimand, because the smoke barrage that had been laid down proved a boomerang with a change of wind; also there was considerable fog. But, nevertheless, they held together and crossed the Hindenburg line where the St. Quentin cannal runs underground. The magnificent work of the British artillery had blasted out the concrete pillboxes, making life miserable for Jerry.

Frierson went all through this battle without a seventich except from the contract of the southern states are oversubscribed, the campaign committee that conditional surrender. Frierson went all through this battle without a scratch, except from barbed, wire, but in the advance on the morning of Oct. 8, when even greater territory was taken, he had gone only 600 yards when he was dropped by a machine gun bullet through his leg. He was forced to go to the rear, and the command of the company fell to the top sergeant.

states in that section having attained their minimum quotas. All except two of the southern states are oversubscribed, the campaign committee announced, and all promise far more than the sums originally set. Including the southern states which have gone over the top, twenty-five states are past their original goals, while the others were reported to be redoubling their efforts.

New returns showing the results of efforts over the week and were slow in reaching national headquarters today, but latest reports indicated Arizona led all other states, with 202 per cent, of its quota in hand and subscriptions still pouring in. Worcester, Mass., was the banner city, with a total subscription of $1.071.000 or more than $6 for every resident.

URGENT APPEAL

Bankers and Manufacturers Urged to Respond to Call of War Work Campaign. Nashville, Nov. 19.—(Special.)— Direct appeals to the bankers and manufacturers of Tennessee for further support to the United War Work campaign in the effort to realize the 50 per cent, oversubscription for the state, was contained in telegrams sent today from state campaign headquarters to national bank presi-dents and heads of industrial cor-porations in all sections of the state.

The appeal to the bankers cites special legislation before congress authorizing national banks to make such contributions and the ruling by Chief Examiner Higgins that nation al banks may make such subscrip-tions conditional upon the pending resolution becoming a law. This ap-peal, signed by State Campaign Chairman J. E. Edgerton and State patriotism and loyalty of the state's Lying side by side, shrouded in olive drab army blankets, with Old Glory spread over the center, were the bodies. The funeral service was held on the summit of a hill, which had been taken by the Americans just a few minutes before hostilities ceased. One of the dead had been a lieutenant, and a mighty brave fighting man. (His name was deleted by the censor.) With the American Army North of Verdun, Nov. 12 .- (Delayed.)-(L. N. In good English, the German major asked to see an American officer of his own rank. A doughboy, who had been detailed as a grave digger, paused shovelling and a group of American soldiers soon surrounded the truce party, whose arrival was most dramatic with such a setting.

Capt. Cabot, of Cambridge, Mass., an acting major who had led his battalion in many a day's hard fighting stepped forward, saying that his acting rank was equal to that of the German's.

The boche major, with the haughty air of his military caste, was unable to conceal his surprise at the sight of a captain in a buck private's uniform, and tactlessly exclaimed: "What! You a captain?"

The German surveyed Capt. Cabot from head to foot, but finally ex-plained his mission. He opened a large envelope and drew forth a communication written in German which proved to be a description, accompanied by a chart, showing the land mines just ahead of the New England troops. Had fighting lasted longer, it might have meant scores of Amerian lives lost.
